OVERLAND PARK, Kan./Apr. 08, 2015 – Saint Luke's South Surgery Center is pleased to welcome new facility administrator, Lindsey Kroenke, RN, BSN, who brings to her role an extensive healthcare history involving nursing and, more recently, administration. Kroenke joined the surgery center officially in February and is poised to continue its reputation for award-winning service and outcomes.

"I'm excited about this opportunity with Saint Luke's South Surgery Center," said Kroenke. "Saint Luke's as a whole is an incredible entity, and this surgery center in particular is a wonderfully efficient and effective part of their network. I feel well equipped to lead here and look forward to guiding the center toward continued success."

Kroenke, who spent more than a decade in nursing after graduating from the College of St. Mary in Omaha, Neb., most recently worked as the administrator of a 5,000-square-foot surgery center where she managed an annual revenue cycle of $1.3 million. Her nursing experience has included roles with Kansas University Medical Center, The Nebraska Medical Center and Surgery Center of Gilbert in Mesa, Ariz.

Saint Luke's South Surgery Center opened in 2007 and caters to a wide variety of surgical and pain management specialties, including gynecology, gastroenterology, ENT (ear, nose and throat), orthopedics, plastic surgery, podiatry and more. The facility, which maintains a 96 percent positive patient satisfaction rate, features three fully equipped operating rooms and private patient recovery bays.

"My goal here is to further improve the surgery center's processes and programs, ensuring that it remains a facility known for best-in-class quality, positive patient experiences and the best possible outcomes," said Kroenke.
